Result

Prompt Life: Model Literate now remains visible as a single badge concept, but the Badge page clearly says it is under construction, pending human review, and not yet issued. Progress is framed as practice evidence, not an issued credential.

What Changed

- Removed learner-facing development notes from lesson, Play, and Badge learner screens, including the visible checkpoint-bank label and Play progress inspector.
- Rebuilt the Badge page around status, practice evidence, learning-objective evidence, and draft criteria.
- Added a placeholder badge visual panel labeled under construction with final visual pending.
- Added `docs/DEV_NOTES.md`, `docs/badge/BADGE_CRITERIA_DRAFT.md`, and `npm run audit:learner-copy`.

Badge Page Wording

| Area            | Visible wording                                                                                                                                  |
|-----------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Status          | Under construction; Pending human review; Not yet issued.                                                                                        |
| Main note       | Prompt Life: Model Literate is under construction. The Journey, checkpoint bank, and evidence model are being tested before any badge is issued. |
| Evidence caveat | Your progress below is practice evidence, not an issued credential.                                                                              |
| Criteria        | Criteria are not final.                                                                                                                          |

Known Issues

- Checkpoint mastery is not yet persisted as a detailed evidence metric, so the Badge page intentionally does not claim a mastered-question number.
- The final badge visual remains pending.
- The build still emits the pre-existing large-chunk warning.
